What is the most important issue for you? The Cooper review. Artists are concerned about the changes to the rules for self-funded superannuation schemes, which means that these funds won't be able to purchase art as an asset. That would be pretty devastating.

What should the next government's first priority be? Not to change the rules [for self-funded superannuation schemes] because it would take a lot of money out of the art market.

Will the recent change of prime minister have any influence? It did initially, but I've been a bit disappointed since then.

Will the impending retirement of Lindsay Tanner influence your vote? That's had an effect because I think Lindsay Tanner's been a really effective minister and a really good member, so it is disappointing that he won't be standing.
